Your Door's Personal Security Guard

As break-ins continue to rise and more facilities move toward remote management, staying a step ahead of the bad guys has never been more important. The Trac-Rite Security Guard system gives every door its own silent protector—standing watch when you can't. Engineered with a reinforced bottom bar and an optional dual latch design for even greater resistance, the SG system withstands up to three times more force than standard doors. It sends burglars looking for an easier target while giving you and your customers true peace of mind. And as the industry shifts toward enhanced security and smart monitoring, the SG system pairs seamlessly with smart locks, creating an even stronger barrier against intrusion. For you, that means confidence. For thieves, it means they never even try. This low-cost investment provides a powerful layer of protection that can be installed right at the factory, and retrofit kits for 944 and 977 Trac-Rite doors make upgrading effortless. When security matters most, give your doors the strength to defend what's behind them.
